

Tom Edman
Group Vice President
General Manager, Display Business Group
Applied Materials, Inc.

Tom Edman is group vice president (GVP) and general manager of the Display Business Group at Applied Materials, Inc. In this role, he reports to chairman and chief executive officer Mike Splinter as a member of the executive staff, and is responsible for all aspects of the Display business, including emerging technologies such as touch screens and OLED, which are driving a new cycle of investment and reshaping the company's customer landscape.

Mr. Edman previously was GVP and general manager of Corporate Business Development and Global Corporate Affairs and Marketing for four years, where he was responsible for the company's investment and acquisition strategy, building the company's brand image and reputation in the community and communicating effectively to our stakeholders. He brings significant experience to the Display Business Group, having spent 10 years with Applied Films Corporation, serving as president and chief executive officer from 1998 to 2006, when it was acquired by Applied Materials. While at Applied Films, he led the company's IPO and subsequent public offerings as it emerged as a major supplier of deposition equipment for the flat panel display and solar markets. Mr. Edman also held various executive positions at Marubeni Specialty Chemicals, Inc., a subsidiary of a major Japanese trading corporation from 1993 to 1996.

Mr. Edman serves on the governing board of the FlexTech Alliance (formerly the United States Display Consortium) and on the board of directors of TTM Technologies, Inc. serving as chairman of its compensation committee.

Mr. Edman received his bachelor of arts degree in East Asian studies from Yale University and his master of science degree in business administration from The Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania.
